eHealthPartners Technology Recruitment services are designed to help you fill your permanent Information Technology positions quickly and cost effectively. By painstakingly matching your requirements with qualified candidate's experience and career goals we help optimize the "fit" for both parties. The result is higher productivity and employee retention levels and reduced talent acquisition costs.

Our Recruitment team offers both contingency and retained search services. Sensitivity to your organization's goals and culture is of paramount importance as we determine your requirements and identify, screen and refer candidates for your review. We provide an additional flexible level of recruitment support as needed regarding matters such as salary negotiation, conducting reference and background checks, drug testing, relocation support and immigration processing.

We leverage tools including our proprietary candidate database and internet recruitment websites as well as our extensive network of health insurance information technology professionals (developed over the past 10 years) to identify the candidates that will best meet your needs.
